

January 10, 2018 Second Comment Angel De Fazio

Yesterday you proved that you have no people skills or any ability to read people, by blathering on, that any comments made regarding PUKE, are to be made at the agenda meetings, even citing when they are held. Projecting your inaccurate assumptions is not the sign of a so called 'leader'.

You attempted, but failed, to try and embarrass me, regarding being associated with WatchDogs. Since you SELECTIVELY read off commenters, I filed FOUR, to be used when appropriate and germane to xyz issue. Just like I did with the deposit docket, when the NTEF was being represented.

If I was TRYING to hide my association with Watch Dogs, I would NOT have a PUBLIC registration, I would use the private option.

Lets get one thing straight and on the record, I am FULLY PROUD of Watch Dogs and how it presents unconstrained opinions on PUKE and will continue to do so, with the same vim and vigor as in prior years.

Now, you just did your HISTORIC BSC reduction, are you going to do anything about the federal tax break, that has power companies starting to apply this reduction to their customers?

Since Exelon is chomping at the bit to financially enrich themselves here in NV, and PEPCO Holdings is part of them, are you going to do anything about their press release from the 5th?

PEPCO announced they will file with the Public Service Commission of DC in early February, outlining plans to provide annual tax savings to more than 296,000 electric customers in the DC area. If approved, Pepco would plan to begin providing a credit lowering customer bills starting in the first quarter of 2018, from the federal tax breaks.

So what about NV? Yesterday you went ad nauseum about LOWER costs, ok, now, make good on your so called 'concerns' : "If NVE won't take the initiative on refunding income tax reductions, PUKE should be offering the strong suggestion to NVE that they need to share their reduced tax burden with ratepayers now, rather than over earning and refunding money in some distant future."
